“the patent-in-suit,” attached as Exhibit A) entitled “Mixed Allergen Compositions And Methods For Using The Same.” Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief to prevent Defendant from continuing to infringe Plaintiff’s patent. In addition, Plaintiff seeks a recovery of monetary damages resulting from Defendant’s past and continued infringement of this patent.

2. This action for patent infringement involves Defendant’s manufacture, use, sale, offer for sale, and/or importation into the United States of infringing mixed allergen composition products including, but not limited to, RSF’s “Stage 3” food mix-in product, comprising nine allergen flours and powders including walnut, peanut, cashew, almond, milk, wheat, and sesame (the “Accused Product”).

3. Additionally, this is an action for false advertising arising under Section 43(a)(1)(B) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1)(B), to enjoin false advertising and to obtain damages resulting from Defendant’s false claims in its online advertisements, packaging, and other marketing materials that have misled consumers into choosing Defendant’s products over Plaintiff’s. Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief to prevent Defendant from falsely advertising regarding the Accused Product. In addition, Plaintiff seeks a recovery of monetary damages resulting from Defendant’s false advertising of the Accused Product.

4. Finally, this is an action for deceptive trade practices arising under 6 Del. C. § 2532 to enjoin deceptive trade practices and to obtain damages resulting from Defendant's deceptive marketing tactics including, but not limited to, false representations regarding the characteristics and ingredients of the Accused Product. Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief to prevent Defendant from continuing to deceive consumers and harm Plaintiff's business. In addition, Plaintiff seeks a recovery of monetary damages resulting from Defendant's pattern of deceptive trade practices.

5. The actions for false advertising and deceptive trade practices involve Defendant's online advertising including, but not limited to, on its website (<https://readyssetfood.com/>), its official Instagram account (@readyssetfood), in SMS text messages, and on product listing pages on Amazon.com, which claim that the Accused Product "contain[s] a total of 2 g of protein per week for each allergen with the exception of egg whites," which Defendant has admitted to be literally false.

~~7.10.~~ Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b), (c) and 1400(b) because Defendant is incorporated in this district.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

SpoonfulONE and Its Inventive Mixed Allergen Compositions, as Claimed in the '003 Patent

~~8.11.~~ Since 2015, SpoonfulONE has been a leading provider of nutritional products intended to protect babies from developing a food allergy. The company's products are incorporated into the diet of infants around four months of age as part of solid food introduction, enabling families to provide balanced, gentle, and consistent immune system training to their infants.

~~9.12.~~ SpoonfulONE owns or has rights to multiple patents and pending patent applications directed to mixed allergen compositions. SpoonfulONE is diligent in protecting and enforcing its intellectual property.

~~10.13.~~ Plaintiff sells its products under the brand name SpoonfulONE.

~~11.14.~~ SpoonfulONE products have been on the market since 2017.

~~12. On information and belief, Defendant RSF began operations on or about 2018, and launched its Stage 3 mix-in product in March 2021.~~

~~13. Defendant promotes, offers for sale, and sells its allergen mix-in products online through an Internet website accessible at <https://readyssetfood.com/> and via Amazon.~~

~~14. Defendant's advertisements for the Accused Product state that the Accused Product will "[i]ntroduce the top 9 allergens to your baby mixed into any food they eat" comprising peanut, milk, cashew, almond, walnut, sesame, and wheat.~~

15. On August 15, 2017, the '003 Patent was duly and legally issued for an invention entitled "Mixed Allergen Compositions And Methods For Using The Same."

16. Dr. Kari Nadeau, is one of the world's leading pediatric allergists and immunologists and the Director of the Sean N. Parker Center for Allergy and Asthma Research at Stanford University. She is the inventor of the '003 Patent. ~~She is also the~~

~~16.17.~~ Dr. Nadeu co-~~founder of~~ founded SpoonfulONE in 2015. As the inventor and co-founder of SpoonfulONE, Dr. Nadeau had the vision to make multi-allergen introduction easy and safe for parents.

~~17.18.~~ The '003 Patent is directed to mixed allergen compositions comprising multiple different allergens.

~~18.19.~~ The invention of the '003 Patent is advantageous because it is directed to combining multiple flours and powders—, including nut allergens, animal allergens, and non-nut allergens—, for use in a variety of applications, including combatting food allergies. By combining multiple different allergens, the '003 Patent invention helps combat multiple food allergies in the same composition. Food allergies are an epidemic—to this day, hundreds of people die annually in the United States due to fatal food allergies and billions of dollars are spent per year on healthcare for food allergic reactions. The invention of the '003 Patent helps fight this epidemic.

~~19.20.~~ The Board of Trustees of the Leland Stanford Junior University (“Stanford”) owns all rights, title, and interest in and to the '003 Patent among other patents and patent applications.

~~20.21.~~ SpoonfulONE has a license to the '003 Patent and ~~other~~ intellectual property pursuant to the Second Amended and Restated Exclusive (Equity) Agreement it executed with Stanford on September 24, 2019. SpoonfulONE has an exclusive license in the field of foods and dietary substances—, including but not limited to all rights to make, use, and sell the technology claimed in the '003 Patent, to sublicense the '003 Patent, and to institute suit against third parties for infringement of the '003 Patent.

~~21-22.~~ SpoonfulONE's allergen mix-in products practice one or more claims of the '003 Patent.

Ready Set Food's Infringing Stage 3 Product and Harm to SpoonfulONE

23. On information and belief, Defendant RSF began operations on or about 2018, and launched its Stage 3 mix-in product in March 2021.

24. Defendant promotes, offers for sale, and sells its allergen mix-in products online through an Internet website accessible at <https://readyssetfood.com/>.

25. Defendant also promotes, offers for sale, and sells its allergen mix-in products online via Amazon and online and in stores via the retailer Buy Buy Baby.

26. Defendant's advertisements for the Accused Product state that the Accused Product will "[i]ntroduce the top 9 allergens to your baby mixed into any food they eat" comprising peanut, milk, cashew, almond, walnut, sesame, soy, and wheat.

~~22-27.~~ On April 21, 2021, SpoonfulONE sent a letter to Defendant to notify Defendant of SpoonfulONE's intellectual property portfolio and to inform Defendant of its ~~potential~~ infringement of the '003 Patent.

~~23-28.~~ Defendant did not respond to SpoonfulONE's April 21, 2021 letter.

~~24-29.~~ SpoonfulONE sent a follow-up letter on September 14, 2021 to reiterate the information contained in its previous letter and to provide an update on the prosecution of other patents within SpoonfulONE's portfolio.

25.30. Defendant's counsel responded to SpoonfulONE's September 14, 2021 letter by stating only that "we do not believe that the Stage 3 ~~formulate~~formulation infringes," without providing any explanation or support for that position.

26.31. Defendant has made, used, sold and/or offered for sale within the United States, and/or imported into the United States, allergen mix-in products, including but not limited to the Accused Product, that infringe at least claim 9 of the '003 Patent.

27.32. SpoonfulONE is being irreparably harmed by Defendant's infringement of its valuable patent rights. Moreover, Defendant's unauthorized infringement of SpoonfulONE's patent rights is threatening the value of this intellectual property because Defendant's conduct results in SpoonfulONE's loss of its lawful patent rights to exclude others from making, using, selling, offering to sell, and/or importing the patented inventions.

Ready Set Food's False and Misleading Advertising

33. Defendant advertises and offers for sale the Accused Product on its website.

34. At least until December 13, 2021, Ready Set Food's advertisement and/or offer for sale of the Accused Product in its "FAQ" page stated as follows: "Stage 3 will contain a total of 2 g of protein per week for each allergen with the exception of egg whites." A true and correct copy of the this advertisement and/or offer for sale is copied here:

How much protein for each allergen is included with Stage 3?

Stage 3 will contain a total of 2 g of protein per week for each allergen with the exception of egg whites. The egg white protein will be 1 g total per week.

35. On December 16, 2021, counsel for SpoonfulONE brought the above-referenced FAQ to counsel for RSF's attention. Counsel for RSF responded: "I have discussed the FAQ that you sent below with my client. They said that the information was incorrect and took it down." (emphasis added).

36. Defendant also operates product listing pages on Amazon.com. Defendant continues to advertise and/or offer for sale on Amazon.com that the Accused Product comprises equal parts of protein by weight, despite Counsel's representation that the false or "incorrect" FAQ had been taken down. A true and correct copy of the Amazon advertisement and/or offer for sale for the Accused Product is as follows:

Question: The infographic shows the doses of milk, egg increasing over several days - where can I find this info (doses/# of days) for the 9 stage 3 allergens?

Answer: Stage 3 will not have an individual introduction to all 9 allergens. It will be a combined mixture of all allergens starting with the first packet. Stage 3 will contain a total of 2 g of protein per week for each allergen with the exception of egg whites. The egg white protein will be 1 g total per week.

37. In correspondence dated February 11, 2022, counsel for RSF wrote, “To be clear, at no time did RSF use equal parts by protein weight,” again admitting that RSF’s advertisement and/or offer for sale regarding the protein weight of the Accused Product was knowingly false.

38. Defendant advertises on the Accused Product’s packaging that it contains the “[t]op 9 allergens.” Defendant also makes the same claim on its website, Amazon.com product page, and official Instagram account. The following are examples:

39. The claim that the Accused Product contains the top 9 allergens is false or at least misleading because the Accused Product does not contain fish and shellfish. The “top 9 allergens” as defined by the Food Allergen Labeling and Consumer Protection Act of 2004 includes fish and shellfish.

40. Defendant knowingly falsely or misleadingly advertises that the Accused Product contains the top 9 allergens. This is at least because, in an FAQ on the Amazon.com Stage 3 product listing, Defendant acknowledges that the top 9 allergens include fish and shellfish, which the Accused Products do not have.

41. Defendant, throughout its advertisements, has used themes, colors, slogans, and motifs that closely resemble SpoonfulONE’s advertisements. On information and belief, consumers are confused by Defendant’s similar branding and conflate the products from the two brands. The following are visual examples of RSF’s deliberate mimicking of SpoonfulONE’s branding and advertisements in a way that misleads consumers:

SpoonfulONE

Ready Set Food

42. Defendant, through its affiliate Prevent Food Allergies (at preventallergies.org), has made false and disparaging statements regarding SpoonfulONE's products. For example, in a chart comparing the Accused Product with SpoonfulONE's product, it lists SpoonfulONE's product as containing only nine allergens when in fact it contains 16 allergens.

43. On information and belief, Defendant's false and misleading advertising and marketing statements have caused actual deception or at least a tendency to deceive a substantial portion of consumers who buy such products. Defendant's deception is material in that it is likely to influence consumers'

44. SpoonfulONE has been injured by Defendant's false advertising, including loss of sales and goodwill. SpoonfulONE and RSF are the only two companies in the market offering multi-allergen compositions in a multi-staged and portion-controlled format. As such, SpoonfulONE is in direct competition with RSF for these products. On information and belief, SpoonfulONE has lost sales to RSF because of its false advertisements.

60. Defendant sells the Accused Products on its website, Amazon.com, and through other national retailers that offer delivery in all 50 states. At least for that reason, the Accused Product is sold in interstate commerce.

61. Defendant's acts of false advertising have caused damage to SpoonfulONE and SpoonfulONE is entitled to recover from Defendant the damages sustained by SpoonfulONE as a result of Defendant's wrongful acts in the amount subject to proof at trial. 69. SpoonfulONE is entitled to damages for Defendant's unfair and deceptive trade practices described above.

70. Defendant's conduct has damaged SpoonfulONE, and caused and continues to cause it irreparable harm. SpoonfulONE is likely to be injured by Defendant's conduct in the form of declining sales and/or lost goodwill. SpoonfulONE has no adequate remedy at law.
